

Surah 2. Al-Baqara

Asad: And the divorced women, too, shall have [a right to] maintenance in a goodly manner:<sup>231</sup> this is a duty for all who are conscious of God.

Malik: Reasonable provisions must also be made for divorced women. That is an obligation upon those who fear Allah.

Mustafa Khattab:

Reasonable provisions must be made for divorced women—a duty on those mindful of Allah?

Pickthall: For divorced women a provision in kindness: a duty for those who ward off (evil).

Yusuf Ali: For divorced women maintenance (should be provided) on a reasonable (scale). This is a duty on the righteous.

Transliteration: Walilmuṭallaqati mataAAun bialmaAAroofi haqqan AAala almuttaqeena

231 - This obviously relates to women who are divorced without any legal fault on their part. The amount of alimony - payable unless and until they remarry - has been left unspecified since it must depend on the husband's financial circumstances and on the social conditions of the time.
